HAS INTEREST IN GRAND PRIZE EAR

William A. Alexander's Gold Standard is Female Parent of National Trophy Winner.

TO BE SEEN IN INDIANAPOLIS

Local Farmer's Achievement Result of 42 Years of Endeavor tarted by His Father.

William A. Alexander, living west of the city, has a half interest in the world's most perfect ear of corn, an extended history of which is given on page two of this issue, and which will be exhibited at Tomlinson hall in Indianapolis next week during the Indiana Business Men's Industrial Exposition. The male parent of the famous ear is Reid's Yellow Dent and the female is Alexander's Gold Standard.

Alexander's Gold Standard is the result of forty-two years of endeavor. Mr. Alexander's father, William M. Alexander, Sr., living at 912 North Main street, began to breed and grow for a perfect corn and the work was taken up by his son, who finally perfected an almost perfect ear which has withstood the test of years.

Alexander's Gold Standard is recognized now as about the best corn grown in Indiana. When the first corn growers' meeting was held in Indianapolis twelve years ago the first prize was awarded to Alexander's Gold Standard. This breed of corn has been winning prizes ever since. This was the grand championship over the world at that time because that was before the national corn shows were held. At the first show in Indianapolis Prof. Shammel of the agriculture department at Washington, who was one of the judges, said that Alexander's Gold Standard was the best corn he had ever seen.

Later the corn growers' meeting was transferred to Purdue University where it is held annually at the Purdue University short course along with the annual meeting of growers of other grains and raisers of stock. There is a corn day at Purdue each year during the short course. Alexander's Gold Standard has taken sweepstakes of the nation previous to the establishment of the national corn show.

Only four national corn shows have been held. The first one was at Chicago, the second and third at Omaha, and the fourth at Columbus. There was no fifth annual show, but the sixth will be held in North Carolina, when from $60,000 to $75,000 in prizes will be awarded. Indiana has been beaten only once in the national shows, and that was at Columbus last year.

Alexander's Gold Standard has a regular place on the Purdue experiment station exhibit tables now, and its grower, William A. Alexander, is at the head of the corn division of the Purdue short course. Alexander's Gold Standard has been sent out over the State by the experiment station and it has been raised alongside other breeds of corn. It has always proved to be the best corn and has produced the best ears.

DEHORITY HERE.

William A. Dehority of Indianapolis, chief of the State board of accounts, was here yesterday afternoon for a short time and spent the time in the county auditor's and treasurer's office, explaining various phases of their work which is not clearly understood by those two county officials and which has been more complicated by the State board which is instituting alleged reforms in the business of all of the county offices.

LOCALS PLAY RICHMOND

Will go There For Return Game Tomorrow Night.

The Rushville high school basketball team will go to Richmond tomorrow night for a return game with the fast high school team there. Richmond has the credit of defeating Rushville in the first game played here several weeks ago. The score was 10 to 8, but the locals hardly expect to hold them to this close a score on a strange floor. At present Richmond is tied with Shelbyville for first place, and as Shelbyville will not play the game scheduled with Connersville, Richmond by winning will be in first place.

SANDUSKY MEN FIGHT TO DRAW

Ethie Waybright, Ball Player, Well Known Here, and Alen Ryan Settle Argument.

BLOOD SPILLED 'TIS SAID

Ethie Waybright and Allen Ryan fought to a draw in Sandusky yesterday and a little blood was spilled during the melee, according to word from that place. It was reported here today that the two men had a fight there last night and that Ryan cut Waybright badly. This was found to be false as no knives were exhibited during the fray.

Waybright is well known here. He will be remembered as the man who played with the Greensburg base ball team here years ago when Greensburg and Rushville battled for supremacy. Ryan operates a livery stable in Sandusky. It was impossible today to learn what the cause of the trouble was as the men implicated were very reticent and residents of the town did not care to be mixed in the quarrel.

SHOULD HE BE UP FOR CONTEMPT?

J. E. Morris Files Affidavit Against W. A. Hughes Requesting Him to Show Cause in Court.

LITTLE STIRRING IN COURT

An affidavit and motion was filed by the plaintiff in the circuit court today in the case of J. Edward Morris against Richard R. Harter and William A. Hughes for specific performance against the defendant Hughes for him to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. It is understood that the defendant Hughes failed to bring into court some papers which were asked by the plaintiff. It was said in court this afternoon by one who pretended to know that nothing would come of the action.

The court house was a rather quiet place today although Judge Blair was busy most of the day. Arguments were heard in several cases and action of little importance to the general public was taken in a few instances. Court was held in the law library this morning.

INFANT ROBERTS DIES.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitch Roberts of Moscow died last night of acute congestion of the kidneys and the funeral services and burial was held this afternoon.

PLAYERS BAT; CROWD CHEERS

Ball Game at "Big Brother" Banquet at First Presbyterian Church is Pleasant Event.

FROM "BLEACHERITE'S" VIEW

Home Runs Common With Hitter While Many Clout Ball For Three Sacks.

There was a hot little ball game at the First Presbyterian church last night—that is it was a sort of a mental affair in which wits vied with one another. The idea was to make a home run into the heart of some boy and bring him to the point where he could realize the worth of living right in early life so that he could reap a rich reward when he becomes a man.

There were several home runs, a few pinch hits, some two or three baggers, while a single or two was clouted out. The most perfect score was made by the Band of Workers of the church who served the supper. It was turkey, cranberry sauce, oysters, mince pie, salt-rising bread, good coffee and other wholesome food that can be obtained only at an affair of this sort. The women of the organization were complimented copiously by the various after-dinner speakers for their part of the very happy affair.

It was in reality a "Big Brothers" banquet given by the men's Bible class of the church. Every man was supposed to take a boy. There were plenty of boys, for they had heard about the turkey and other good things. Each man was assigned to look after a boy, which was done at the banquet table.

The first inning consisted of menu alias grub. It was announced on the score cards that no one was allowed to wear masks or gloves. Ralph Payne was umpire, and he rendered decisions fairly and justly. There were no cries of "Kill the umpire" and no bottles were showered at his head.

The second inning consisted of the real hits of the evening. It was announced on the cards that no man on the home team would be allowed more than five minutes to make a hit on penalty of being called out by the umpire. Well, some men made more than one hit, they talked more than five minutes, but they were not called out by Umpire Payne. If they had been, it is likely that the "bleacherites" would have mobbed the man who held the indicator. The grub and the hits were seasoned by some peppery music by Dwight VanOsdol's juvenile orchestra.

Sam Trabue headed the batting list and he lead off with a hit that was welcomed by all—in fact he made the address of welcome for the class and he said some good things which the boy guests might take home and put under the thinktanks for keeps. He could not say enough nice things about the women who prepared the meal.

Wallace Payne, the young son of the umpire followed with a three base hit when the pitcher served this ball: "Why We Are Glad We Are Here." He made a very entertaining talk and gives promise of being an after-dinner speaker that will put some of his elders to shame. He told stories in the style of a veteran.

Tom Arbuckle found the ball, "If I Were a Boy" very much to his liking and he romped around the third sack with glee, as he told of the boy who found a dime, bought some chewing tobacco and then lay down and threw up. He lost all of his self-respect, this boy Tom Arbuckle talked about, as the batter said, and other things, too. The hitter told of

FISHER TO HEAD SPEAKERS' LIST

Secretary of Interior is to Talk at Lincoln League Meeting Next Monday.

BANQUET AT 6 IN EVENING

James E. Watson is Included in Galaxy of Speakers to be at Feast.

Walter S. Fisher, secretary of the interior in the cabinet of William Howard Taft, president of the United States, will head the splendid galaxy of speakers which will address the banqueters at the annual convention of the Lincoln League in Newcastle, Monday, February 12, says the Newcastle Courier. The other speakers of prominence on the program will include Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice-president; Charles W. Miller, United States district attorney; Charles A. Bookwalter, mayor of Indianapolis; James E. Watson, former member of congress from the Sixth district, and Edgar Dean Crumpacker, member of congress.

The program for the convention was completed at Indianapolis at a meeting of the league's program committee. It was participated in by Judge Ed. Jackson, W. L. Risk and James H. Jones. The program in full is as follows:

"Welcome to New Castle—Mayor George M. Barnard.

Response—Elmer E. Hastings, Pres. Appointment of Committees.

Election of Officers.

Resolutions.

Short Addresses.

Banquet at 6 p. m.

Music.

Invocation.

Address of Welcome—Judge M. E. Foraker.

Response—Elmer E. Hastings, L.

Fisher, Secretary of the Interior.

Address—Hon. Walter.

Address, "Lincoln as a Statesman,"

Hon. C. W. Fairbanks.

Address, "Lincoln in Politics," Hon.

C. A. Bookwalter.

Address, "Lincoln, the Self-made Man," Hon. C. W. Miller.

Address, "Republicanism of our Martyred Presidents," Hon James E.

Watson.

Address, "Just One," Hon. E. D.

Crumpacker of the Republican

State Committee.

Address, "1912," Chairman.

Short speeches by prominent Republicans.

Secretary Fisher, who will be the headliner at the banquet, is an Indiana product. He was born in this state and is a graduate of Franklin college. Secretary Fisher is regarded as a progressive Republican in the true sense of the term. His brand of progress is not of the rule or ruin variety and he is a strong supporter of President Taft.

In nearly every instance the party leaders who were present in Indianapolis announced their intention of attending the New Castle meeting. Consequently, it is now believed that the attendance at the convention of the league will exceed 1,000.

The toastmaster at the banquet will be Hon. Marcus Sulzer of Madison, Ind. Mr Sulzer is one of the Republican leaders of southern Indiana.

GAME CANCELLED.

The Blue Ridge basket ball team was to meet the Milroy Eurekas in Blue Ridge last night, but the game was cancelled by Blue Ridge for unknown reasons. Blue Ridge is scheduled to play the Eurekas at Milroy Friday night and it is expected a very fast game will result.

TROUBLE IN BUNCHES

Sorrow and Sickness in Family of Ephriam Redinbaugh.

Sorrow and sickness does not come singly to Ephriam Redinbaugh of Blue Ridge. Mr. Redinbaugh is lying at the point of death at his home from lung trouble, his aged mother is in a very serious condition from an attack of pneumonia. His wife suffered a spell of heart trouble and nervous prostration yesterday, and is in a very serious condition.

CITY TOURNAMENT BEGUN LAST NIGHT

John Wolters Wins First Match From Earl Osborn—Geo. Monjar and Ed Carter Tonight.

500 VISIT OPENING GAME

The city championship pool tournament started off with a big whoop at Demmer Brothers' pool room, approximately five hundred men going in and out the place during the course of the game. John Wolters won the match from Earl Osborn by a narrow margin. The game was for a hundred points, straight pool, and was well played by both contestants. George Monjar and Ed Carter, conceded to be two of the best players in the city, are matched for tonight.

When the game started it was apparent that the contest would be close as both players were "on edge." The highest individual run of the game was fifteen, made by Earl Osborn. The average run was seven balls. The game was played in an hour and five minutes.

The tournament is being conducted along strictly professional lines by Tom Hiner and proper rules are observed in all of the games. Every man entering the pool room last night was presented with a "Pouch" cigar by Demmer Brothers and about five hundred were given away.

HE MAKES A HUMAN TOBOGGON OF SELF

T. E. Murphy of Near Glenwood Slides on His Face on Snowy Road For 200 Yards.

DRAWN BY RUNAWAY HORSE

Two hundred yards of sliding, face downward, over a snowy road and drawn by a galloping horse, was the experience of T. E. Murphy, of the Glenwood neighborhood a morning or two ago, when, with his wife and daughter, Miss Jessie, he started in a sleigh to the village. Soon after they set forth the shafts of the sleigh came loose from the body of the vehicle and the horse, frightened at the accident, broke into a swift run. Mr. Murphy's hands became entangled in the lines, and he was hauled out of the sleigh and whisked over the snow-clad highway for several rods, like a living toboggan. He was not hurt at all, and the lines coming loose from his wrists he was left lying in the road, while the flying steed went on. He arose, pursued and overtook it, and brought it back to the sleigh, the shafts of which he fastened securely. The party then continued their journey, thankful that the accident had had no more serious outcome.

JOHNSON MEETS JEFFRIES IN RING

It is Improvised One in "Marriage Room" of Clerk's Office in Court House.

THEY STARTED LIFE'S BATTLE

The Rev. Cyrus Yocum is Referee When Namesakes of Famous Pair Clasp Hands.

The Johnson-Jeffries knot was tied for a second time late yesterday afternoon—but the principals were not those in that memorable event at Reno a year ago last Fourth of July. In this instance Johnson and Jeffries were both white.

The ring was in the "marriage room" of the clerk's office in the court house and the referee was the Rev. Cyrus Yocum of the Main Street Christian church. Those at the ringside were the clerk of the Rush circuit court, a lot of loafers at the office, and attendants, being relatives of the two who joined together to start on life's battles.

Pearl G. Johnson, Hamilton county, and Miss Audery Jeffries, Rush county took their places in the ring after they had been presented with a license by the clerk, to stand before the minister. They appeared to be near a nervous breakdown when they stepped into the ring, but that feeling soon left them when they were asked to clasp hands by the Rev. Mr. Yocum as is the custom.

But no fun—Johnson and Jeffries were united in the clerk's office late yesterday afternoon. They came about five o'clock with a retinue of relatives and sought the marriage license clerk. He filled out the necessary blanks, the Rev. Mr. Yocum was called, and a very pretty wedding ceremony was carried out.

But the men around the clerk's office could not suppress the merriment which was caused by the unusual alliance. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were apprised of the fun which they had created when the ceremony was over and they joined in the fun with great zeal. The relatives of the bride and bridegroom thought it strange that the same thing had not been suggested to them before but it never had. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Johnson of Hamilton county and the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Jeffries, living north of the city.

The wedding was a happy one—the blushing bride and bridegroom departed from the clerk's office in a pleasant state of mind. It is now Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and the Johnson-Jeffries joke is at an end. They were united in the bond in which the greatest of battles—that of life—will be fought and they left here for a quiet farm near McCordsville where all future rounds, if there should chance to be any, will be waged in a cozy little nest already prepared for them.

$25 FOR RETURN OF GLOVE

"Uncle" Jimmie Johnstone, who represents a harvesting machinery manufacturing concern, lost a glove today which he valued very highly and for the return of which he said today he would pay $25. The glove was hardly worth that much but he won it last Christmas and some sentiment seems to surround that incident. Just what it was traveling men at the Windsor hotel today could not determine. Anyway they had a lot of fun out of it. Johnstone has been visiting this county for the same company 25 years.

World's Most Perfect Ear Will Be Exhibited in Indianapolis

Corn Which is Closely Related to William Alexander's Gold Standard, Will Be Shown During Indiana Business Men's Industrial Exposition.

"Just a countryman—that's all," is the way the grower of this remarkable ear of corn, Mr. Fred C. Palin, styles himself. Though he is admitted to be one of the leading corn experts in the country—one whose services are greatly in demand as a judge of corn exhibits, Mr. Palin asks for no greater honor or distinction study and painstaking selection of seed and breeding than the experiences of this same Palin. The farmer who thinks he stands a chance to go into his corn field and by a piece of luck pick out an ear which Nature has fashioned even more perfectly and with it wrest the honors from this Indiana man, cannot do better

THE WORLD'S GREATEST EAR OF CORN VARIETY—Palin's Corn Flake Yellow. (Named after winning the W. K. Kellogg $1,000 Trophy.)
A HYBRID—The seventh year production.
PARENT PLANTS—Male, Reid's Yellow Dent; Female, Alexander's Gold Standard.
DIMENSIONS—Length, 10 1/8 inches. Circumference, 7 3/4 inches. Number of rows, 20. Length of kernels, 3/4 of an inch. Width of kernels, about 3/8 of an inch. Thickness of kernels, 1/6 of an inch. Arrangement, very uniform, kernels running in straight rows the entire length of the ear without a misplaced grain, holding their length well to the ends of the ear, tip being well covered with dented grains. Weight, 20 ounces. Estimated proportions—corn 92 per cent; cob, 8 per cent.

than to be known as a plain Hoosier farmer, and while he openly professes a reasonable pride in the achievement of growing the famous ear of corn which was adjudged the most perfect ever grown, it is without a shadow of ostentation.

The champion ear of corn was not an accident. There can be no greater lesson in the value of careful to disabuse his mind of this fallacious notion than to read the story of Palin and his champion ear.

In the first place, Palin knows corn. If there were no more proof of this fact than the bare story of the development and discovery of the champion ear, it would be enough. And in proof of this fact, here is the story as he told it himself:

"It was November, 1910, and we were just harvesting our crop. The weather had been good, but we were a little late with the harvest. The men were going through the fields with the wagon in the usual way gathering the corn, and the harvest was a promising one.

"We have a sort of corn show at my farm all the time, and there is always an award for exceptionally good ears of corn—ears sufficiently true to type to permit of their being exhibited. There is a small box on every corn wagon in which the most perfect ears are thrown. These, when properly selected, constitute the seed corn, and among these more perfect ears we occasionally find an ear that we are willing to exhibit in a contest.

"On the day the champion ear was found, I was at the house and at dinner time one of the men brought it in and laid it, with a number of other ears, upon the window sill in the well room for me to take and put away in the seed house.

"Well, I said, 'do you think you've got a good ear there?'
"It looks to me like a good ear," he said. "What do you think of it?"
"I picked it up and looked it over. 'Well, I said finally, 'I think it is the most perfect ear of corn I ever saw. It's good enough to win the W. K. Kellogg $1,000 trophy this year at Omaha.'"

"And I was confident the moment I saw it, and looked it over, that I held the trophy winner in my hand. So much so that when I left for Omaha to exhibit the ear, I took it out of my grip and showed it to the station agent with the words, 'That's the ear I'm going to win the $1,000 trophy with.'"

So there's the story of the champion ear as Palin told it himself. And on the strength of it who will say that Fred C. Palin doesn't justly merit the title, "The Man who Knows Corn?"

But that's not all of Palin's story. He tells it willingly, though modestly, for he knows that his story whenever told is a source of great encouragement of the thousands of farmers who never had a better chance than he had himself. Palin was born and brought up on a farm near Newtown, Ind. He has never owned a foot of farm land in his life, and the 360-acre farm on which the champion ear of corn which won the Kellogg Trophy was grown is a rented farm.

Mr. Palin's real experience as a farmer began about sixteen years ago, and maintaining careful selection, so that in nine years' time he had developed a well-settled type.

The Palin champion ear was the first winner of the W. K. Kellogg National Corn Trophy, a handsome silver and enamel cup made by Tiffany of New York at a cost of $1,000. Mr. Kellogg as the originator and manufacturer of Toasted Corn Flakes naturally has a deep interest in the development of the higher grades of corn, for the company of which he is president, the Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Co., requires ten thousand bushels of corn a day for the making of its product. The Kellogg trophy was offered to be awarded in annual competition for the best single ear of corn until won twice by the same producer. The fact that the Kellogg product is made only from selected white corn, while the winning ear was of a pronounced yellow type, was a peculiar feature.

The Kellogg trophy was won in 1910 at Columbus, Ohio, by R. A. James, of Charleston, Ill., with a magnificent ear of Reid's Yellow Dent, but not so perfect an ear as that which originally won the trophy and which has become known as "the best ear of corn ever grown."

The next exhibit of this wonderful ear of corn will be held at Tomlinson hall, Indianapolis, Ind., from February 12 to 17 during the Indiana Business Men's Industrial Exposition, in connection with M. O'Connor and Company's Select Display of Food Products.

World's Champion Ear of Corn has won over $9000 in prizes besides the $1000 trophy.

FARMER COMING INTO HIS RIGHTS

Secretary Wilson Says That Agricultural Department Will be Carried to Farms.

PLANS DEMONSTRATION WORK
Campaign of Education in South by Southern Railway, Proves of Great Benefit.

It seems that at last the agricultural department of our national government is to exist for some purpose, if we accept the published statement of Secretary Wilson to the effect that the "agricultural department is to be carried to the farmer." That is to say that the government, through specially appointed agents will embark in practical demonstration work throughout the farming sections of the South.

There is much more in this than appears on the surface. Up to two years ago the South was not looked upon as a profitable farming section. Modern science had not been extensively applied to agricultural pursuits, as could easily be observed by railway travelers from the train windows. When the Southern railway, traversing almost the entire Southern section, set out to emphasize agricultural opportunities it set a commendable example which the government is now about to follow. The prospective results are not hard to estimate. The tilling of the soil by improved methods will make, and has already made many hitherto barren fields of the South yield profitable crops.

Not long ago we heard it remarked that it was not the business of the government to show farmers how to make a living for themselves. That statement, being characteristic of the men who made it, did not impress his hearers, and we would not refer to it here, but for the announcement made Saturday by Secretary Wilson. The agricultural department is a branch of the government, which is supposed to be "of the people, for the people and by the people," existing for the encouragement of agriculture throughout the United States. Without the farmer and his activities the country, and consequently the government, could not exist. We find then a mutual dependence upon each other—the farmer and the government—and when the latter lends its aid and advice to the agriculturist it is really advancing his own interests and lining its coffers with additional taxes. It may sound far-fetched, but it is true to the letter if you analyze it.

There are now thirty-three fewer epileptics in public institutions than were reported a year ago. One reason for the change is that the School for Feeble-Minded Youth no longer receive that class. The State hospitals for the insane report nine more than were present the same day last year and the county asylums twelve less.

ZEMO MAKES ASTONISHING ECZEMA CURES

"We Prove It."

Every day ZEMO gives relief and cures men, women and children in every city and town in America whose skins are on fire with torturing ECZEMA rashes and other itching, burning, scaly, and crusted skin and scalp humors. ZEMO and ZEMO (ANTISEPTIC) SOAP, two refined preparations will give you such quick relief that you will feel like a new person.

We will give you three reasons why we recommend and endorse ZEMO and ZEMO SOAP for all skin and scalp eruptions.

1st. They are clean, scientific preparations that give universal satisfaction and are pleasant and agreeable to use at all times.

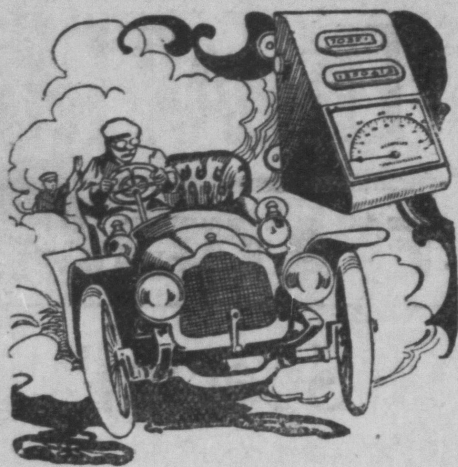

2d. They are not experiments, but are proven cures for every form of skin or scalp affections whether on infants or grown persons.

3d. They work on a new principle. They do not glaze over the surface, but they penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life from underneath the skin and destroy it. In this way a complete cure is effected in any case of SKIN OR SCALP ERUPTION.

Endorsed and sold in Rushville by F. E. Wolcott's Drug Store.

How Cold Affects The Kidneys

Avoid taking cold if your kidneys are sensitive. Cold congests the kidneys, throws too much work upon them, and weakens their action. Serious kidney trouble and even Bright's disease may result. CHINA HAS TWO FIRM BACKERS America and Germany Offer Her Their Protection.

OTHERS MUST KEEP HANDS OFF

Prospective Grabs on the Part of Covetous Powers Will Find a Checkmate in Concerted Action Taken by This Government and the Government of the Kaiser Declaring That Trespassers Must Keep Out of China.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Secretary of State Knox has again put the United States in a position of protector of the integrity of the Chinese empire and in a note to the German ambassador places this government on record in favor of a policy of "hands off" during the present political upheaval in China.

The publication of the note is also regarded as in effect a declaration to the world that the United States and Germany will be found acting together against any grab in China by other powers. The publication of the note follows an exchange between the governments of Germany and the United States in regard to the situation. The note was handed to Ambassador Bernstorff in response to an inquiry from his government as to the attitude and general impressions of the United States in regard to conditions in China. Copies of the note have been placed in the hands of the governments of other powers chiefly interested in China, namely Russia, England, Italy and Japan. It is expected that the text of the note and the circumstances under which its publication was agreed upon by Germany and the United States, will have a strong effect in regard to future developments in China.

Full faith in the adhesion of all the powers to the policy of non-intervention and absolute neutrality in the Chinese situation is expressed by Secretary Knox in his note. He further says that the United States is firmly convinced that in the event of further steps by the powers in the Chinese situation, all will agree to the policy of concerted action. Secretary Knox also declares it to be the policy of the United States to discourage its national bankers from making any loan to either side in the Chinese situation, regarding a loan to either a violation of the policy of absolute neutrality.

This step on the part of Secretary Knox is plainly a move in continuation of the Hay policy in regard to China. Germany has from the first been most hearty in accord with the United States in maintaining the integrity of China and the absolute neutrality of the powers during the present revolution. There is no doubt in Washington that the import of the Knox note will be fully realized by the governments to which it has been communicated. Though the American secretary of state has succeeded in couching his expression of policy in the most diplomatic terms, its significance as the warning note will, it is thought, be clearly seen by the other powers. The fact that the writing and publication of the Knox note is the result of an understanding between Germany and the United States will greatly add to the force of the document. The other powers, according to the Washington view, will hesitate long before embarking upon a policy of advancing their special interests by taking advantage of China's distress with Germany and the United States standing together before the world in opposition to any such move.

TRAIN ROBBERS

Make a Big Haul in Hard Cash Down in Arkansas.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 8.—Five men plundered the mail and express cars of a Rock Island train near Hulbert, Ark., and made away with their booty long before an alarm was spread and posses could seek their trail. The holdup was so cleverly planned and executed with such precision that none of the train employees could offer resistance and few of the passengers knew anything had happened until they awoke to find their train stalled. While the express company has given out no statement, it is reported money consigned to a bank in Oklahoma, estimated at between $60,000 and $75,000, had been taken from the express car by the robbers.

CONGRESS WILL INVESTIGATE IT

Will Get at Bottom of Everglades Scandal.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS ARISE

The Florida Senators Call on Mr. Moss, Chairman of Committee in Charge of the Inquiry Into the Affairs of the Agricultural Department—Secretary Wilson and Solicitor McCabe Court the Fullest Investigation.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The house committee on expenditures in the agricultural department has begun a thorough investigation of the Everglades land controversy. Chairman Moss having been directed to issue subpoenas for witnesses. Henry E. Davis, former United States attorney for the District of Columbia, has been retained by Chief Engineer Elliott and Assistant Engineer Morehouse of the drainage division, who were dismissed by Secretary Wilson last Saturday, and by Accountant Singleton, who was suspended, to represent their interests before the committee during the investigation.

Hearings will probably not be begun until some time next week, but Chairman Moss today directed the issuance of a subpoena for J. O. Wright, formerly an employee of the department and now chief engineer of the Everglades drainage project. Wright on Jan. 19 of this year brought to the attention of Solicitor McCabe the charges upon which Elliott and Morehouse were "fired" and Singleton suspended. The first witness called, however, will be A. Zappone, chief of the division of accounts of the department. He will be asked to tell the committee all the details of the alleged irregularities in the accounts of the drainage division in 1909, which resulted in the punishment last Saturday of the three officials in question.

There have been several new developments in the Everglades controversy. The department of agriculture has issued a statement denouncing as "prejudiced, one-sided and untrue" the statement given out by Representative Clark of Florida, declaring that Secretary Wilson suppressed a warning circular and an engineer's report on the Everglades because the circular and report did not please the land speculators operating in the Everglades. The department's statement also declares that Elliott and Morehouse were dismissed "because they had certified and presented false accounts, knowing them to be false, on which the government paid out money."

Senators Fletcher and Bryan of Florida were closeted with Chairman Moss for a couple of hours. In connection with the senator's visit it became known that a senate document printed last summer which was supposed to embrace all public papers relating to the Florida Everglades, did not in fact contain the report made by J. O. Wright when a department employee, but instead contained a second revision of the report made by Wright himself after he had left the employ of the government and had become chief engineer of the drainage project under the state of Florida. Mr. Wright says in a letter to Secretary Wilson, dated Nov. 25, 1911, that Senator Fletcher helped him revise the report.

"Senator Fletcher," says Wright in his letter to the secretary, "got permission from the last session of congress to publish this report as part of a senate document. A copy was procured from your department and sent to the government printing office. When the galley proof was struck off Elliott got a copy and proceeded to re-write the same.

"When it was returned to the committee it no longer appeared to be my report, but Elliott's report. My name had been stricken out and Elliott's inserted in many pages. Page after page had been stricken out and many typewritten pages supplied to take their places. Matter had been injected that was not in the original report and conclusions drawn that were not warranted by facts.

"Senator Fletcher was amazed and requested me to come to Jacksonville and go over the matter with him. I did this and the report was corrected to conform to the manuscript secured from your department. I have recently received a page proof of this document."

In the senate document it was Mr. Wright's revised and approved report—that is, the report revised and approved by him after he had left the department and was connected with the drainage project—that was printed. The document does not contain any reference to the unfavorable circular issued by Elliott when the department began to receive letters from all over the country asking for information as to the value of the Everglades lands for investment purposes.

The stand taken by Secretary Wilson and Solicitor McCabe in their conviction that in punishing Elliott, Morehouse and Singleton, they did the only thing possible under the circumstances and their apparent willingness to be investigated have lent additional interest to the pending inquiry.

The centenary tributes of Charles Dickens occupy hundreds of columns in the papers of England. These tributes are eulogistic, and anecdotal.

ANOTHER FOR AUDITOR

John F. Mapes of Glenwood Wants to be Auditor.

John F. Mapes of Glenwood today announced that he would make the race for nomination as auditor of the Republican county ticket. This is the first opponent which Will McMillin, the first candidate for the same nomination, has had. Mr. Mapes is sort of a dark horse, as his candidacy has never been talked here. Mr. Mapes has been interested in politics all his life and served as trustee of Union township one term. He has lived in Rush county forty years and taught school fourteen years.

Mr. Jinnett is well and favorably known all over Rush county and there is no doubt but what he could fill the office well. He has been admitted to the bar and is well qualified to represent Rush county.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Ranchman's Mother-in-Law" the first picture at the Palace tonight is a thrilling Bison western drama. "Winning Papa's Consent" and "A Quiet Evening" are the titles of two clever comedies on split-reel by the Reliance company. An attraction booked for the near future is the sensational Imp picture in two reels, "From the Bottom of the Sea."

The Portola offers as the first film tonight a Vitagraph drama, "The Freshet." It is an exciting story of a great flood. The other is a Melies comedy, "The Reason Why." The management announces the three reel Selig production of "Cinderella" for Feb. 16 and 17.

The second of the band concerts and benefit shows will be given tonight at the Princess. Large crowds attended last night and the show was very pleasing. An entire change of pictures will be given. "Saving the Special," the first picture is a thrilling railroad melodrama. The foiling of the villain, who because he could not wreck the engineer's home tries to wreck his train, is shown in a most sensational manner. Another good picture will be shown. Miss Richards will sing a special solo.

Frank McIntyre in his first stellar venture "Snobs" the screamingly funny farce comedy which scored such a hit at the Hudson Theatre in New York, comes to English's Opera House for two nights, beginning Monday, February 12th. In "Snobs" Mr. McIntyre who is best remembered as the jolly fat drummer in James Forbes comedy "The Traveling Salesman" has been metamorphosized into a milk cart driver who all of a sudden is acquainted with the fact that he is a Peer of the English Realm with half a dozen landed estates and the right to wear his hat in the presence of the king. The milkman immediately attires himself in a milkman's idea of ducal raiment and descends upon society thereby causing some consternation and incidentally three acts of genuine fun. Manager Harris who is guiding the McIntyre stellar destinies has surrounded his latest star with a splendid support which includes Myrtle Tannehill, Eva McDonald, Marie Fitzgerald, Katherine Stewart, Roy Fairchild, John Cumberland, Orlando Daly and Frank Brownlee.

Mrs. Edward A. Lee was very pleasantly surprised today, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. Her daughter, Mrs. Harry A. VanOsdol, and two friends, Mrs. Gilbert Coats and Mrs. Frederick Boyd, came down from Indianapolis and will be guests at the Lee home the remainder of the week and over Sunday. Mrs. Lee received several presents.

Announcement for the wedding of Ornie Gardner of near Manilla to Miss Mary Krammes of near Rushville were issued yesterday, the ceremony to be performed Wednesday evening, February 21, at the home of the bride, by the Rev. Mr. Jones of Arlington. Mr. Gardner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Gardner of near Manilla. By his sterling qualities he has made countless numbers of friends. Miss Krammes is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Krammes and by her lovable disposition she numbers her friends by her acquaintances. Mr. Gardner has already rented a farm north of Manilla and he and his bride will move there immediately after the wedding.

Raoul went on making this strange sort of remarks which corresponded so intimately and logically with the preoccupation of his brain and which, at the same time, tended to persuade many people that his mind was unshaken. The count himself was seized with this idea; and, later, the examining magistrate, on receiving the report of the commissary of police, came to the same conclusion.

"Who is Erik?" asked the count, pressing his brother's hand.

"He is my rival. And, if he's not dead, it's a pity."

He dismissed the servants with a wave of the hand and the two Chagnys were left alone. But the men were not out of earshot before the count's valet heard Raoul say, distinctly and emphatically:

"A Ghost Who Bleeds Is Less Dangerous!"

"I shall carry off Christine Daae tonight."

This phrase was afterward repeated to M. Faure, the examining-magistrate. But no one ever knew exactly what passed between the two brothers at this interview. The servants declared that this was not their first quarrel. Their voices penetrated the wall; and it was always an actress called Christine Daae that was in question.

At breakfast—the early morning breakfast, which the count took in his study—Philippe sent for his brother. Raoul arrived silent and gloomy. The scene was a very short one. Philippe handed his brother a copy of the Epoque and said:

"Read that!"

The viscount read:

"The latest news in the Faubourg is that there is a promise of marriage between Mlle. Christine Daae, the opera-singer, and M. le Vicomte Raoul de Chagny. If the gossips are to be credited, Count Philippe has sworn that, for the first time on record, the Chagnys shall not keep their promise. But, as love is all-powerful, at the opera as—and even more than—elsewhere, we wonder how Count Philippe intends to prevent the viscount, his brother, from leading the new Marguerite to the altar. The two brothers are said to adore each other; but the count is curiously mistaken if he imagines that brotherly love will triumph over love pure and simple."

"You see, Raoul," said the count, "you are making us ridiculous! That little girl has turned your head with her ghost-stories."

The viscount had evidently repeated Christine's narrative to his brother, during the night. All that he now said was:

"Good-by, Philippe."

"Have you quite made up your mind? Are you going tonight? With her?"

No reply.

"Surely you will not do anything so foolish? I shall know how to prevent you!"

"Good-by, Philippe," said the viscount again and left the room.

This scene was described to the examining-magistrate by the count himself, who did not see Raoul again until that evening, at the opera, a few minutes before Christine's disappearance.

Raoul, in fact, devoted the whole day to his preparations for the flight. The horses, the carriage, the coachman, the provisions, the luggage, the money required for the journey, the road to be taken (he had resolved not to go by train, so as to throw the ghost off the scent); all this had to be settled and provided for; and it occupied him until nine o'clock at night.

At nine o'clock, a sort of traveling-barouche with the curtains of its windows close-down, took its place in the rank on the Rotunda side. It was drawn by two powerful horses driven by a coachman whose face was almost concealed in the long folds of a muffer. In front of this traveling-carriage were three broughams, belonging respectively to Carlotta, who

CAUSE FOR ALARM

Loss of Appetite or Distress After Eating a Symptom That Should Not be Disregarded.

Appetite is just a natural desire for food. Loss of appetite or stomach distress after eating indicate indigestion or dyspepsia. Over-eating is a habit very dangerous to a person's good general health.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, healthiest, and healthiest persons are moderate eaters.

There is nothing that will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all in Rushville who suffer from any stomach derangement, indigestion, or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality, if after reasonable use of this medicine, they are not perfectly satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers every day, and have yet to hear of any one who has not been benefited by them. We honestly believe them to be without equal. They give very prompt relief, aiding to neutralize the gastric juices, strengthen the digestive organs, to regulate the bowels, and thus to promote perfect nutrition, and eradicate all unhealthy symptoms.

We urge to try a 25c. box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, which gives 15 days' treatment. At the end of that time, your money will be returned to you if you are not satisfied. Of course, in chronic cases length of treatment varies. For such cases, we have two larger sizes, which sell for 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, Lytle's Drug Store, Corner Third and Main streets.

had suddenly returned to Paris, to Sorrelli and, at the head of the rank, to Comte Philippe de Chagny. No one left the barouche. The coachman remained on his box, and the three other coachmen remained on theirs.

A shadow in a long black cloak and a soft black felt hat passed along the pavement between the Rotunda and the carriages, examined the barouche carefully, went up to the horses and the coachman and then moved away without saying a word. The magistrate afterward believed that this shadow was that of the Vicomte Raoul de Chagny; but I do not agree, seeing that that evening, as every evening, the Vicomte de Chagny was wearing a tall hat, which hat, besides, was subsequently found. I am more inclined to think that the shadow was that of the ghost, who knew all about the whole affair, as the reader will soon perceive.

They were giving Faust, as it happened, before a splendid house. The Faubourg was magnificently represented; and the paragraph in that morning's Epoque had already produced its effect, for all eyes were turned to the box in which Count Philippe sat alone, apparently in a very indifferent and careless frame of mind. The feminine element in the brilliant audience seemed curiously puzzled; and the viscount's absence gave rise to any amount of whispering behind the fans. Christine Daae met with a rather cold reception. That special audience could not forgive her for aiming so high.

The singer noticed this unfavorable attitude of a portion of the house and was confused by it.

The regular frequenters of the opera, who pretended to know the truth about the viscount's love-story, exchanged significant smiles at certain passages in Marguerite's part; and said:

ITCHING EVERY MOMENT

Distressing Eczema May be Quickly Banished.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

Eczema is seen in so many forms that any itching eruption is almost certain to be this disease. In the acute stage the itching is almost maddening, as it does not give one a moment's peace.

Our new skin remedy, Saxon Salve was devised to meet the need for a really trustworthy and scientific treatment of skin troubles.

Saxon Salve not only stops the terrible itching at once, but also penetrates the skin pores, reaching the very root of the disease with its healing germ-destroying power.

You will be both surprised and delighted to see how the eruption begins to dry up and disappear after the first few applications.

It is splendid for children as well as for adults, and we give back your money if Saxon Salve does not satisfy you perfectly. F. B. Johnson & Co., druggists, Rushville, Ind.

they made a show of turning and looking at Philippe de Chagny's box when Christine sang:

I wish I could but know who was he
That addressed me,
If he was noble, or, at least, what his name is.

The count sat with his chin on his hand and seemed to pay no attention to these manifestations. He kept his eyes fixed on the stage; but his thoughts appeared to be far away.

Christine lost her self-assurance more and more. She trembled. She felt on the verge of a breakdown. . . . Carolus Fonta wondered if she was ill, if she could keep the stage until the end of the Garden Act. In the front of the house, people remembered the catastrophe that had befallen Carlotta at the end of that act and the historic "co-ack" which had momentarily interrupted her career in Paris.

Just then, Carlotta made her entrance in a box facing the stage, a sensational entrance. Poor Christine raised her eyes upon this fresh subject of excitement. She recognized her rival. She thought she saw a sneer on her lips. That saved her. She forgot everything, in order to triumph once more.

From that moment the prima donna sang with all her heart and soul. She tried to surpass all that she had done till then; and she succeeded. In the last act when she began the invocation to the angels, she made all the members of the audience feel as though they too had wings.

In the center of the amphitheater a man stood up and remained standing, facing the singer. It was Raoul. Holy angel, in heaven blessed . . .

And Christine, her arms outstretched, her throat filled with music, the glory of her hair falling over her bare shoulders, uttered the divine cry: My spirit longs with thee to rest!"

It was at that moment that the stage was suddenly plunged in darkness. It happened so quickly that the spectators hardly had time to utter a sound of stupefaction, for the gas at once lit up the stage again. But Christine Daae was no longer there!

What had become of her? What was that miracle? All exchanged glances without understanding, and the excitement at once reached its height. Nor was the tension any less great on the stage itself. Men rushed from the wings to the spot where Christine had been singing that very instant. The performance was interrupted amid the greatest disorder.

Where had Christine gone? What witchcraft had snatched her away before the eyes of thousands of enthusiastic onlookers and from the arms of Carolus Fonta himself? It was as though the angels had really carried her up "to rest."

Raoul, still standing up in the amphitheater, had uttered a cry. Count Philippe had sprung to his feet in his box. People looked at the stage, at the count, at Raoul, and wondered if this curious event was connected in any way with the paragraph in that morning's paper. But Raoul hurriedly left his seat, the count disappeared from his box and, while the curtain was lowered, the subscribers rushed to the door that led behind the scenes. The rest of the audience waited amid an indescribable hubbub. Every one spoke at once. Every one tried to suggest an explanation of the extraordinary incident.

At last, the curtain rose slowly and Carolus Fonta stepped to the conductor's desk and, in a sad and serious voice, said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, an unprecedented event has taken place and thrown us into a state of the greatest alarm. Our sister-artist, Christine Daae, has disappeared before our eyes and nobody can tell us how!"

CHAPTER XIV.

The Singular Attitude of a Safety-Pin.

Behind the curtain there was an indescribable crowd. Artists, scene-shifters, dancers, supers, choristers, subscribers were all asking questions, shouting and hustling one another.

"What became of her?"

"She's run away."

"With the Vicomte de Chagny, of course!"

"No, with the count!"

"Ah, here's Carlotta! Carlotta did the trick!"

"No, it was the ghost!"

And a few laughed, especially as a careful examination of the trap-doors and boards had put the idea of an accident out of the question.

Amid this noisy throng, three men stood talking in a low voice and with despairing gestures. They were Gabriel, the chorus-master; Mercier, the acting-manager; and Remy, the secretary. They retired to a corner of the lobby by which the stage communicates with the wide passage leading to the foyer of the ballet. Here they stood and argued behind some enormous "properties."

"I knocked at the door," said Remy. "They did not answer. Perhaps they are not in the office. In any case, it's impossible to find out, for they took the keys with them."

"They were obviously the managers, who had given orders, during the last entrance, that they were not to be disturbed on any pretext whatever. They were not in to anybody."

"All the same," exclaimed Gabriel, "a singer isn't run away with, from the middle of the stage, every day!"

"Did you shout that to them?" asked Mercier, impatiently.

"I'll go back again," said Remy, and disappeared at a run.

Thereupon the stage-manager arrived.

"Well, M. Mercier, are you coming?"

"What are you two doing here? You're wanted, Mr. Acting-Manager."

"I refuse to know or to do anything before the commissary arrives," declared Mercier. "I have sent for Miroir. We shall see when he comes!"

"And I tell you that you ought to go down to the organ at once."

"Not before the commissary comes."

"I've been down to the organ myself already."

"Ah! And what did you see?"

"Well, I saw nobody! Do you hear—nobody!"

"What do you want me to go down there for?"

"You're right!" said the stage-manager, frantically pushing his hands through his rebellious hair. "You're right! But there might be some one at the organ who could tell us how the stage came to be suddenly darkened. Now Maclair is nowhere to be found. Do you understand that?"

Maclair was the gas-man, who disappeared day and night at will on the stage of the opera.

"Maclair is not to be found!" repeated Mercier, taking aback. "Well, what about his assistants?"

"There's no Maclair and no assistants! No one at the lights, I tell you! You can imagine," roared the stage-manager, "that that little girl must have been carried off by somebody else; she didn't run away by herself! It was a calculated stroke and we have to find out about it. . . . And what are the managers doing all this time? . . . I gave orders that no one was to go down to the lights and I posted a fireman in front of the gas-man's box beside the organ. Wasn't that right?"

"Yes, yes, quite right, quite right. And now let's wait for the commissary."

The stage-manager walked away, shrugging his shoulders, fuming, muttering insults at those milkops who remained quietly squatting in a corner while the whole theater was topsy-turvy.

Gabriel and Mercier were not so quiet as all that. Only they had received an order that paralyzed them. The managers were not to be disturbed on any account. Remy had violated that order and met with no success.

At that moment he returned from his new expedition, wearing a curiously startled air.

"Well, have you seen them?" asked Mercier.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

PAPER BAG LUNCHEON.

By Martha McCulloch Williams. The luncheon was its own reason for being—a paper bag function pure and simple. This, however, is not saying, that it would not answer for bridge; indeed, for any mild feminine festivity. This festivity was not strictly feminine. Like the moon, it had a man in it—a man who has eaten in the most famous places all round the world. Praise from him, therefore, was "Approbation from Sir Hubert Stanley." I meant the paper bag stuff to have it because I knew that it deserved it.

After breakfast I put my sweet potatoes on to boil, choosing them smooth, of even size and neither too big nor too little. In thirty minutes they were done enough and, peeled under cold water to save discoloration, they were out of hand even before I was through making the sandwiches.

In the meantime the squab livers had been boiling tender in slightly salted water, with just a dash of tobacco in default of a small red pepper pod. When they were tender, they were mashed fine, with a lump of butter and plenty of browned bread crumbs made ready the day before. The mixing done, I cut out the cores of my green peppers, poured boiling salt water upon them, let it stand just half a minute, then dropped them in cold water, took them out, drained them, and stuffed them with liver and crumbs, after which they were set to wait the hour of cooking.

Scraping corn for the pudding I found that half a dozen big ears yielded almost a pint of pulp. Then I beat up three eggs very light, with a big pinch of salt, a tablespoonful of sugar and plenty of red and black pepper. Into the eggs went the corn pulp, after it half a cup of soft butter, last of all a big cup of top-milk, more than half cream. It would not hurt by standing, so it went on ice like the other things.

The cheesecakes had been baked the previous afternoon—hence, there remained only the salad, the squab and the canteloupe to make ready. As soon as my bags were greased I lighted the oven, and by the time I had the corn pudding securely bagged the sweet potatoes smeared with butter, rolled in sugar, and put in their bag with more butter, sugar and lemon juice, the oven was ready for them. I gave them each a shelf, putting the potatoes on the lower one—being already nearly cooked they would take only twelve minutes. When they came out the stuffed peppers, in a thickly-buttered bag, with a lump of butter and a tablespoonful of water added, took their place. I turned on full heat for three minutes, then slacked it as I had done at first. Next I washed and wiped my squab—six beauties, rather than butter—stuffed them lightly with soft bread crumb, seasoned with salt, pepper, a very little chopped celery and shreds of tart apple, wrapped them in thin broad bacon slices, and put them in their bag. Since they needed no water, the bag could stand a little while unharmed. I improved the idle minute by slipping into my company frock. Safely buttoned up, I went back to work. The corn pudding was done—so were the peppers—they had been in the oven about eighteen minutes. All the bags were set in pans down under the oven, protected from the flame by the broiler pan, inverted.

The squab bag now went on the upper oven shelf because I knew they were better if cooked quickly. I left the heat on full for ten minutes, then slacked it a little more than half. Ad interim, I had been preparing the canteloupe, taking out the seed, making tiny cuts in the flesh and sprinkling lightly with sugar, then pouring gently around the inside of each a spoonful of yellow chartreuse. An experiment, this, but one that I shall repeat—it evoked such enthusiasm.

People began coming before the last melon was finished. They trooped in to the kitchen, sniffing cheerfully. The dishes sat ready—in a trice, I had out the bags of vegetables. Murmurs of admiration greeted each of them revealed, and the murmurs swelled to a chorus triumphant when at last the squabs lay plump, juicy, most delicately browned in their allotted platter.

Luncheon speedily followed the usual course. We ate the fat, drank the sweet, and found all things good. This I say, not vainglorily, but in due need to paper bag cookery. The only man said, looking up from his plate at last, "I never really tasted squab before."

And when the luncheon was over the washing up was greatly shortened by the fact of no pans.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS STICK BY LEADER

They Accept Underwood in Preference to Bryan.

Washington, Feb. 8.—In his fight against W. J. Bryan on the money trust investigation, Oscar Underwood, majority leader of the house of representatives, won. It was the second notable victory that Mr. Underwood has achieved over the peerless loser, the first having been Bryan's attempt to force free raw wool on the house Democrats. The Democrats of the house in caucus last night upheld Underwood's demand for a conservative investigation of the "money trust" by the standing committee of the house by a vote of 115 to 66. The Henry-Lindbergh resolution authorizing a sweeping investigation by a special committee as urged by Bryan was laid on the table.
This action authorizes an inquiry of the money trust by four committees of the house instead of by a special committee. The committees that will take up the inquiry at once with a view to legislation are the judiciary, interstate commerce, banking and currency and election of president, vice president and representatives in congress.

DUKE WILL MOVE

Head of Tobacco Trust Going to Transfer His Activities.

New York, Feb. 8.—It is announced at the offices of the American Tobacco company that James B. Duke, president of the company, will soon resign its presidency and accept the chairmanship of the British American Tobacco company, limited, with its head office in London. In order to devote himself to the extension of the business of the latter company, which now lies principally in China, India, Australia, Canada, South Africa and continental Europe, and that he would be succeeded as president of the American Tobacco company by P. S. Hill, long a vice president of that company.

Abe Ruef to Testify.
San Francisco, Feb. 8.—Abe Ruef, former political boss of this city, now a convict in San Quentin penitentiary, will testify for the prosecution in the trial of former Mayor Eugene Schmitz.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Baron de Rio Branco, who has been secretary of foreign affairs for Brazil for a number of years, is dead.
A party of fifty persons perished in a snowstorm while traveling along the road in the vicinity of Ishim, Siberia.
The Stanley steel committee has issued a subpoena for James J. Hill, who is wanted as a witness in the hearings now in progress.
Seven bridges have been burned out on the Mexico Northwestern railroad between Pearson and Santa Sofia and traffic has been annulled.
In Ciudad Juarez and Chihuahua all is in order. Orozco has accepted the appointment of governor of Chihuahua, with which it is believed all disturbances will cease.
The Underwood presidential boom has assumed such proportions that the friends of the other candidates who are contending for the Democratic nomination have begun to take notice.
Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul welterweight, knocked out Young Cashman of New York in the fourth round in the presence of 4,000 Gotham fight fans. It was a slaughter from the start.

LINING UP THE SUSPECTED MEN

Arrest of Alleged Dynamiters
About to Begin.

WARRANTS HAVE BEEN ISSUED

Certified Indictments and Warrants of Arrest Have Been Sent Out to a Number of Cities Throughout the Country, and It is Believed the Work of Corraling the Indicted Men Will Begin Saturday.

Indianapolis, Feb. 8.—It is believed that the work of corraling the men indicted in the dynamiting cases will begin early Saturday morning, the mails leaving this city having carried certified indictments and warrants of arrest to a number of cities throughout the country. The indictments were all drawn in duplicate and there has been little delay in having the copies certified and the warrants issued and the forty-odd men indicted will soon be in custody.

It is said that at least fifteen of the accused men have been more or less prominent in the iron workers' organization, and it is believed that few if any outside that organization have been caught in the net. Around the iron workers' headquarters in this city there is manifest uneasiness, but President Ryan and Secretary Hockin refuse to discuss the matter or confess to more than a passing interest.
Ryan said he did not know anything about the investigation and that he had no fear as far as the organization is concerned, of the result.
The district attorney and the clerks in the office of the federal court do not deny that the capias have been issued and that they have been mailed to other jurisdictions in a number of states. They refuse, however, to state how many persons have been indicted.

SECOND CONVICTION

Another Monroe County Whitecapper Declared to Be Guilty.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 8.—Silas Adams, the second of the eight men charged with having taken part in the whitecapping of Harvey McFarland, May 4 last, in Polk township, was found guilty. The jury was out only one hour. A motion for a new trial was made, and an appeal will be taken to the supreme court. The penalty is two to ten years in state prison.
The attorneys for both sides have agreed that no other whitecap cases are to be tried this term of court on account of the press of civil business.
The case first to be taken up at the next term of court will be that against Newton Adams.

IN THE DITCH

Two Freight Trains on the C. & O.
Come Together Near Richmond.

Richmond, Ind., Feb. 8.—Five train-men were injured, none seriously, when two freight trains on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad crashed into each other, five miles south of Richmond. The injured are: August Hanns, engineer; John Bruce, R. C.
Paine, Fred Jones, trainmen, and H.
F. Hapner, fireman, all of Peru. They were brought to Richmond, where the attention of surgeons was given them.
The freight trains, one northbound and the other southbound, met head-on, but were not traveling at excessive speed. Both locomotives were demolished and twenty cars piled up in the ditch.

LIFE SENTENCE

Imposed Upon Cecil Fordyce For Murder of Clarkson Willcuts.

Marion, Ind., Feb. 8.—Cecil Fordyce, twenty years old, who, on the evening of Jan. 27, murdered Clarkson Willcuts at the home of the latter in this city, was sentenced by Judge Paulus to life imprisonment in the state prison on his plea of guilty.
Fordyce called Clarkson Willcuts to the door, thrust a revolver into his face and demanded his money. Will-cuts grappled with Fordyce, who fired once. Mr. Willcuts died twenty minutes after he was shot. Cecil Fordyce is the son of Elmer Fordyce of Derma Miss. The family formerly lived at Wabash.

Burglar "Scare" Causes Death.
South Bend, Ind., Feb. 8.—Excitement over an imaginary burglar resulted in the death of Miss Minerva Ryan of this city. In her fear she left a sickbed and fled to the bathroom, where she remained until the police arrived. She later suffered a violent attack of hysterics, then sank rapidly until death came.

Aetna Powder Mill to Move.
Gary, Ind., Feb. 8.—The Aetna Powder company, the largest manufacturing plant of dynamite, gun cotton and nitroglycerine in the world, has purchased a 200-acre site on the Kankakee river marshes and will abandon their present site, situated at Aetna, within a mile of the Gary steel mills.
Fire destroyed the John A. Rowe stone mill at Bedford, Ind., causing a loss of nearly $50,000.

ROBERT BACON
Ambassador to France Who Is to Be Recipient of Special Honors.

Paris, Feb. 8.—Robert Bacon, United States ambassador at Paris, resigned, is to be especially distinguished by the interparliamentary arbitration group, which has decided to hold a special session at the senate in his honor before his departure. The date has not yet been fixed.

SENTENCE OF DEATH TREATED AS A JOKE

"A Short Life and a Merry
One," Says MacFarland.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 8.—Chief Justice
Gummere has sentenced Allison Mac-Farland, convicted of murdering his wife by causing her to take cyanide of potassium, to die in the electric chair in the week beginning March 17.
Sentence was imposed after the court had refused to grant a motion for a new trial. Counsel for the condemned man said that he would appeal to the court of errors. This will act as a stay of execution of the sentence.
After MacFarland had been told to stand up and hear his sentence and the chief justice began speaking, Mac-Farland interrupted and asked: "What would I be permitted to say at this time, your honor?"
The chief justice explained that he was at liberty to make any statement he desired to show why sentence should not be pronounced.
"Well, I would simply say," MacFarland replied, "that there are many things which I feel might be offered to show this thing in a different light, and that for some reason or other beyond my control those things have not been brought to light. It was a matter which was out of my control and discretion, and I am in a position of being in the hands of another man who directs the boat, and I simply yield to superior force, under protest. This is all I will have to say in the case, your honor."

The death sentence was then pronounced and MacFarland was taken back to the jail. After rolling a cigarette and lighting it he remarked that "the joke" was on him. One of the constables said that it was a serious joke, and MacFarland replied:
"Oh, I don't know. Some people eat pork and beans all their lives and live to be a hundred years old. Me for a short life and a merry one."

PEACE RESTORED

Irishmen Forego Fine Chance For a Shindy at Belfast.

Belfast, Feb. 8.—If the conditions today are any indication of what may be expected tonight, the great home rule demonstration at Celtic park, where Winston Churchill, John Redmond and others are to address a great Liberal meeting, will pass off without the expected disturbances. Up to the time of writing this dispatch the best order has prevailed. The streets are crowded, but everyone appears to be in the best of humor. The Unionists have made no attempt to revive their scheme for a counter demonstration in Ulster hall, the Unionist council having abandoned this program because of the fear that it might lead to trouble which would be directly traceable to their organization. Through the efforts of Winston Churchill and in deference to the feelings of the Unionists, the Liberals gave up their lease of Ulster hall and hired the football grounds for the demonstration.

Parents Hold No Resentment.
Muncie, Ind., Feb. 8.—The intervention of the parents of the slain boy, Earl Thompson, aged twelve, in behalf of the slayer, Oscar Tharp, aged twelve, Tharp having killed Thompson with a chunk of coal during a boyish fight, probably will save Tharp from severe punishment. Mr. and Mrs.
Thompson say they believe young Tharp had no intention of killing their son. The boy, although no charge has been placed against him, is still under police supervision.

what a boy who led the right kind of a life would do and how the straightforward way through this life was was the kind that pays.

"If I Were a Man" is the ball which Burton Cox, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cox, chose, and he walloped it to the woods. He said he would like to be as tall as his father, among other things, and told of some of the ideals which boys probably have. He left the impression that boys pattern after men, their superiors, and that man is generally their father.

Bert Simpson lined out a three-bagger with "The Men's Bible Class." He told of the wonderful growth of the class in the last year and how it was bound to do good. He held out an invitation to all of the guests to attend Sunday school and said that all of the men there should attend the men's Bible class and could, if they would only get up early enough on Sunday morning.

John F. Moses made the cleanest home run of the evening. He knocked the ball skyward and "clean" into the river when the pitcher served up "Stone Bruises." The former editor recalled his boyhood days in Rushville and talked eloquently of his friends of the stone-bruise and one-gallouse days. He recalled that was an age when boys had opportunities, but that no age was without opportunity. He alluded to some of the characters whom he remembered best, some that he held in sacred memory and one boy whom he learned to dislike heartily, because he implanted impressions in brains of boys which could never be erased. He warned boys against companions who tell filthy stories and urged them to be honest, straightforward and clean.

Gates Sexton galloped for two bases with "Big Brother." He took that occasion to thank the women for their part and observed facetiously that the same fault was found in this banquet—the after-dinner speeches were all too long. He said every man could be a big brother to some boy and help him to a better life.

Col. E. H. Wolfe was the next batter, but he was called out of the city and Ben L. Smith acted as substitute. He found "Wild Oats" a good ball and advised against such practices for boys. In climbing up life's big hill, he said, the boy who sows wild oats will find stubbles of them all the way and he never can eradicate them.

The Rev. Mr. North of Shelbyville was the last man at bat, according to the batting list. His "How to Make Good" ball was good and high, about to center field, but it didn't get over the heads of the audience. He dwelt on what making good really means and said that a consecrated life was the one which really made good.

The Rev. John B. Meacham was a pinch hitter. The umpire insisted that he get into the game. He was there with a hit when it was needed, all right, and he served up the climax to the whole evening. He remarked humorously that he was not witty when he tried to be, but he always tried his jokes out on his wife first. He urged every man to be a big brother to some boy—somebody else's if he had none.

Here's the way the first inning looked on the score card:
Turkey, Dressing, Gravy—At the Bat.
Cranberry Sauce—On Deck.
Scalloped Oysters—To Follow.
Mashed Potatoes—Center Field.
Pickles—Third Base.
Jelly—Score Keeper.
Cheese—Short Stop.
Mince Pie—Business Manager.
Coffee—Right Field.
Bread (Like Mother Used to Bake)—Grand Stand Booster.
Spoon—Catcher.
Fork—Pitcher.

Knife—Star base runner, noted for cutting the corners.

Clairvoyant Busy

Yesterday was a busy day for Professor Richmond, the Clairvoyant at the Beer Cottage Hotel. Business opened with a rush. Seen at his parlors the renowned enigma was surrounded by a throng of people, each waiting to know what the future held in store for them. Some wanted to know if their troubles would soon cease; others if their home affairs would terminate happily; others if they would buy or sell property and still others if they would be successful in their present undertakings. There is nothing of the Gypsy about Professor Richmond, but he is a refined, educated gentleman. He is gifted by nature, also an adept in sciences of psychic phenomena. People can consult Professor Richmond without fear of having their confidence betrayed, as he never divulges the names or the affairs of any person that has been to him for a reading. 285t1
